cal news, and the most faithful devotion to local interests—the paper will be primarily devoted.

The year 1880 will be dustinguished as that of the Presidential and of our general State and county elections, and hence will be one of peculiar political activity and interest. In the National contest the Free Press will be found standing firmly by the principles upon which Tilden and Hendricks triumphed before the people in 1876. As the natural and eminently fit representatives of those principles, it should rejoice agaid to follow the same leadership, and it is not without hopes that it shall be permitted to do so.

In our local politics the Free Press will continue to aim to do equal and exact justice to all aspirants to office, treating all with courtesy and giving all perfectly fair play.

Now is an appropriate time to subscribe. We would be glad if all friends of the Free Press would act as voluntary agents. At least show it to
